Administration

To the graduates of 1943—

You are about to take your place in a society that is upset by a world war. Some of you will see active service; others will do their part on the home front. All of you will have a place in the peace to follow.

Now as never before is leadership important. It has been said that it is more necessary to have intelligent and courageous leadership under a democracy than under any other form of government. Some of you will assume leadership; others will select and follow their leaders. All of you will have important parts and responsibilities in preserving our American democracy.

Woodrow Wilson once said, "We are not put into the world to sit still and know: we are put here to act." Graduates of Cleveland—May you move forward with faith in God and with confidence in the knowledge that you have the foundation for success.

ARTHUR O. KELLEY.

When the metropolitan newspapers of St. Louis announced my appointment as Assistant Principal of Cleveland High School many thoughts rushed through my mind. What kind of a place is Cleveland? How will the faculty receive me? What will the students say when a new Assistant Principal enters the school? In what type of atmosphere is the educational process conducted?

These questions were promptly answered after my arrival. Cleveland High School is splendidly equipped to provide excellent educational experiences for boys and girls. The faculty is alert to the needs of the students and most gracious in its daily contacts with both the pupils and the administrators. Cleveland boys and girls are most cooperative and congenial, and are proud of the friendly atmosphere that permeates the entire school.

May this spirit of Cleveland friendliness radiate into your homes and your community.

ALFRED FRIEDLI.

The Cleveland Commandos, a voluntary military training unit, was organized shortly after our country entered the war. The main purpose of the corps is to offer to the men of Cleveland an opportunity to prepare themselves for any type of military service.

Service in the corps is voluntary, but the discipline is strictly military. During the past year, the Commandos have sent many cadets into the armed services. In many cases, the training they received in the Commandos has been a distinct benefit to them. The corps offers to anyone the chance to help, not only himself, but his school, and his country by preparing himself to be an efficient fighter for Democracy.

Among the activities of the Commandos are military drill, military science and tactics, marksmanship training, aviation pre-flight, combat training and combat engineering courses.

Art Work

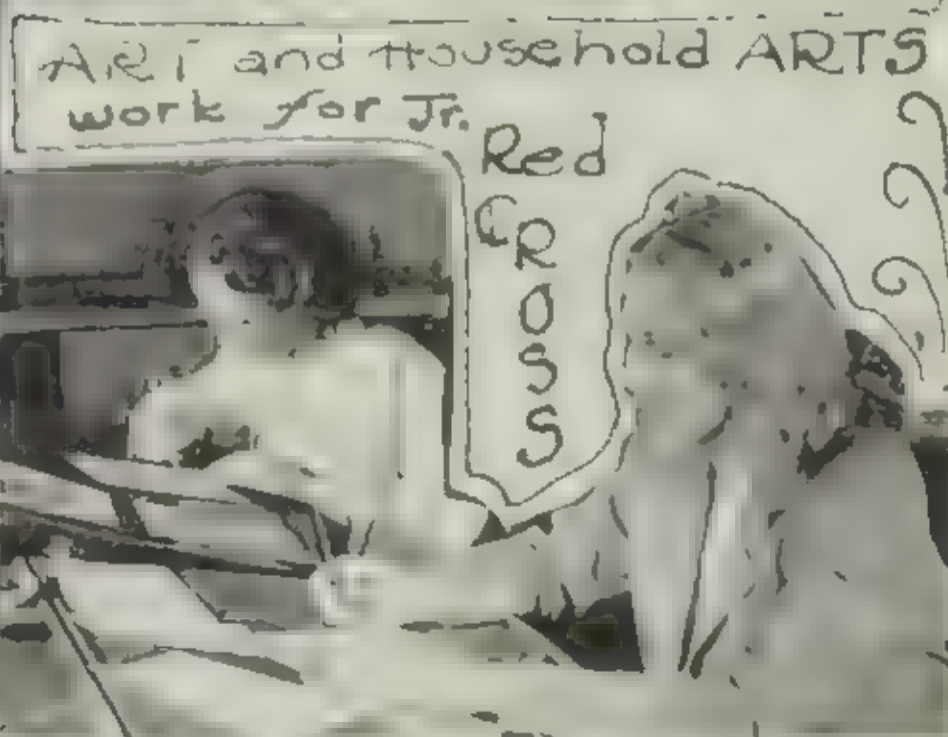

Cleveland High's art classes are doing their share to help with the war work. During the past year, the classes, supervised by Miss Fitch, Mrs. Ross, and Miss Knepper, have been making tray covers, menu cards, and favors for the men at Jefferson Barracks Hospital and for the Navy men at sea.

The tray covers, menu covers, and favors were made for such occasions as Hallowe'en, Armistice Day, Thanksgiving, and Christmas. The tray covers were decorated with designs for the particular holiday, pretty, bright, amusing, and attractive. A very nice looking tray is received by some sick man on all special holidays.

For Hallowe'en, tray covers and favors were decorated with pumpkins and corn, and on Armistice Day, patriotic motifs were used. A freshman class made tray covers for Thanksgiving. Some of these were displayed at a Junior Red Cross Exhibition. The menus turned in for Christmas were very gayly decorated with poinsettia, holly, angels, Christmas trees, and candles, which helped to bring Christmas joy to the hospitalized.

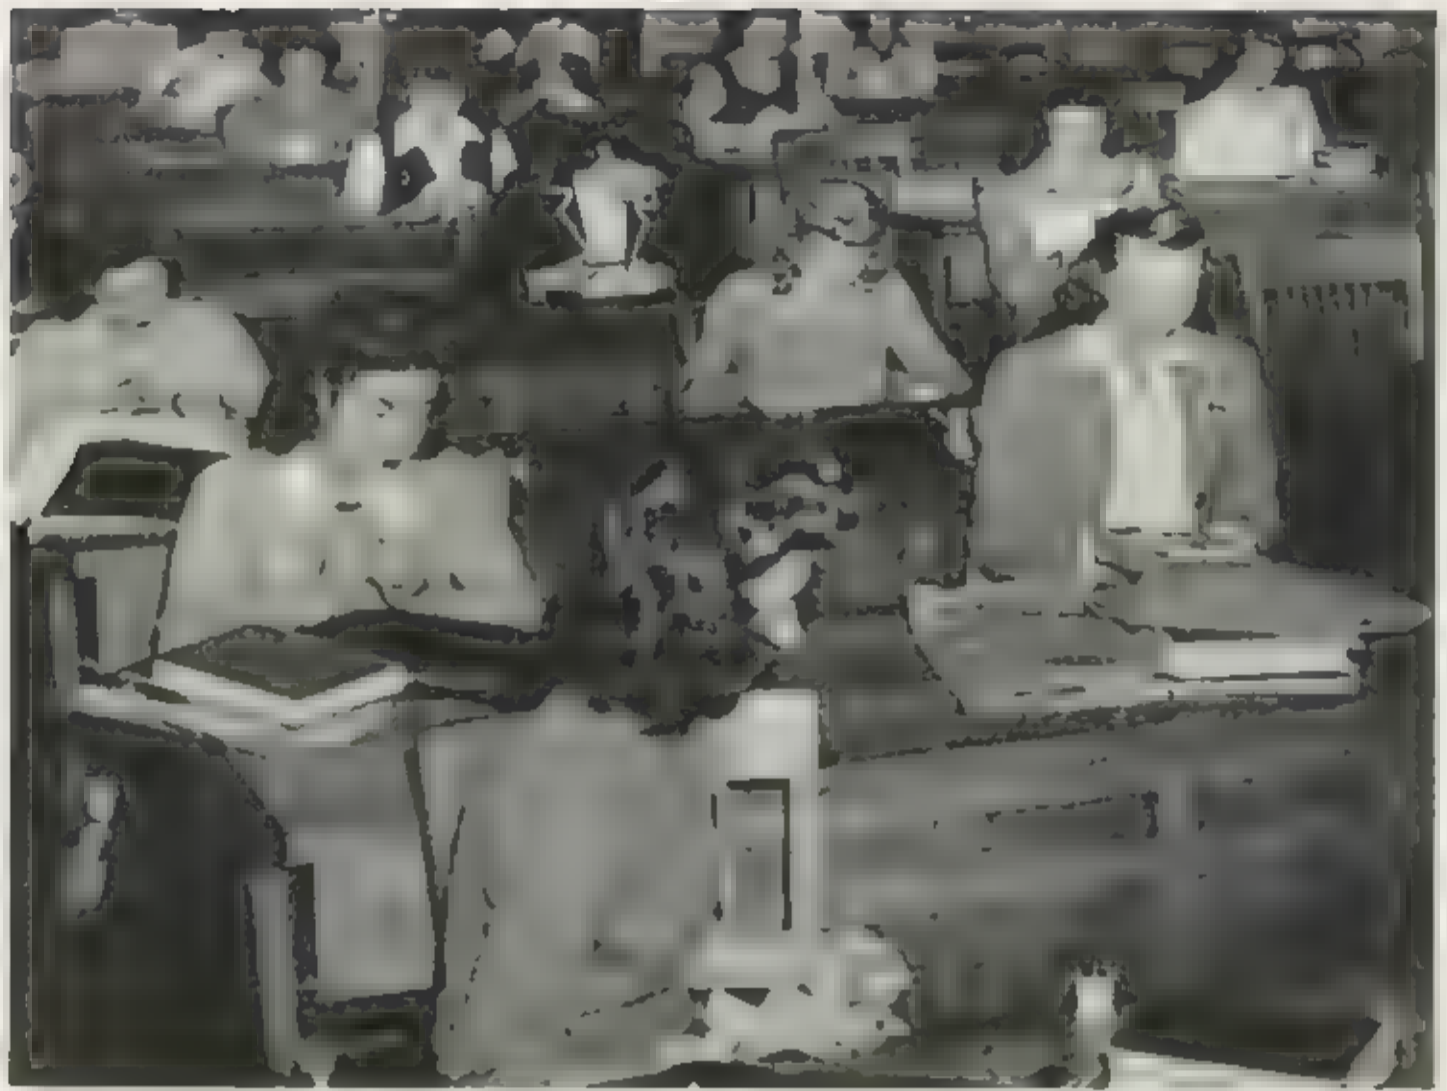

Miss Pope's core group made a number of game and checker boards. The men at the hospitals and camps enjoy games. This work was done at the request of the Junior Red Cross, which distributed the articles to Jefferson Barracks Hospital and the Navy.

The art classes have been called upon to color place cards for the Junior Red Cross and to make signs, charts, and posters. The art classes are certainly contributing to the winning of the war.

Sewing and Knitting for the Junior Red Cross

We here at Cleveland have seen the beautiful garments which were made by our students for the Red Cross. The materials were sent by the Red Cross, already cut out. The students sewed them and furnished the fittings. Some of the Home Economics classes made the flannelette infant dresses, bonnets, and gowns. The girls made the garments during their class period instead of some garment which they had intended to make. Each girl furnished the ribbon and the other fittings for each garment she made. There were five hundred and ninety-five such garments made for the Red Cross during the first semester.

Other students and Home Economics classes made bags used by our men in the service and in hospitals. Several hundred bed bags were made. These bed bags were made of muslin and are used in base hospitals to hold such articles as tooth brush, tooth powder, razors, etc. For the boys in camp there were hundreds of strong denim utility bags made. The utility bags are used by the soldiers to hold articles which would be difficult to find if left loose in his pack. Several hundred hot water bottle and ice bag covers of flannelette were also made. These covers are used to prevent sudden shock from the heat and cold.

Students throughout our school have knitted sweaters, scarfs, beanies, and squares for afghans. Those students who desired to knit garments were given printed instructions for making the article.

Cleveland students have given up their time to do their bit to help win the war and the peace which shall follow.

Reading Boards

One of the contributions of Cleveland students to the aid and comfort of those who have been injured on the far flung battlefields of the world is the making of reading boards for use in base hospitals.

The boards went through the first stages of preparation in Mr. McNutt's woodworking classes. They were made of California redwood with a strip of white pine along each end to give it added strength. The boards measure 30 inches by 18 inches. Then an American Problems class skillfully drew maps of all parts of the world on one side of the board. Many of them are detailed maps of the present-day and the coming battlefronts of the world. Several of them show the railroads and chief resources and where they are found. One map shows the pursuit and bomber plane ranges from our newly acquired bases in North Africa.

Checkers, backgammon, or chess boards will be painted on the reverse sides. These games were chosen because they are nationally known among men of all ages. While the game will serve to boost the servicemen's morale, the maps will remind them that they are the soldiers of freedom.

Victory Book Drive

One of the many things which Cleveland High School has done to help the men in the service is the collecting of books. The Junior Red Cross appealed to the students of all high schools to collect books. Students were asked to give books which they liked well enough to keep. The books will be distributed to all parts of the world where our soldiers are fighting. To these men, the books will furnish many hours of pleasure and relaxation, which they otherwise might not get.

The book drive at Cleveland operated in this manner—students brought all the books they could get to their advisories, who, in turn, sent them to the librarian who was in charge of the drive. Although collecting books may seem to be a trivial thing in times as these, Cleveland students realized the importance of such a drive and showed again that they could be relied upon to respond to any call that may come to aid our soldiers in the fight for victory.

War Stamps and Bonds

The students as well as the faculty of Cleveland High School are proud of our excellent cooperation in selling War Stamps and Bonds.

Our sale has "zoomed" until we rank first among all the high schools in St. Louis. At the time the Beacon went to press, the sale of Stamps and Bonds reached the total of $47,032.90. Our per capita was almost $23. This gratifying account is the result of the fine spirit shown by our boys, girls, and teachers toward doing their part in the war effort. They realize that they are not only putting aside funds for future personal needs but at the same time are giving valuable help toward national defense.

The War Stamps and Bonds are sold on Monday mornings during the advisory period. The Student Council Representatives are in charge of the sales. The money is collected in the advisory room and the Stamps are secured in the library and Student Council Office. Charts showing the total amount of money collected during the term and also one showing the standing of advisory groups on the per capita basis are kept up to date. The charts are very attractive and help spur the students to buy.

This year Superintendent Hickey set a goal of $625,000 purchase of Stamps and Bonds for the St. Louis Public Schools. Cleveland immediately set a goal of $50,000, half of which was reached during the first semester. One of the Art classes constructed a poster of an immense gun which is valued at $50,000. Each week we watch our purchases grow by filling in the part of the gun purchased. We know we shall be out in front, far past our goal, by June.

Our Service Flag

Cleveland is honoring its alumni that are in the service of our country. The best way we know to do this is to have a star to represent each one on our service flag.

Since there are quite a number already in the service and more leaving all the time, the flag is quite large. In fact, there are nine hundred on the flag, which measures twelve by fifteen feet. Each star is four inches across and the color of each is blue, which is replaced by one of gold in case a man or woman is reported missing or killed in action.

At present there are twenty gold stars. We also have a number of young men that have earned distinction and are serving abroad. Then, too, there are several girls that are serving and have won honors. Former Cleveland students are scattered to all parts of the world. Many served at Pearl Harbor, Bataan, and Africa.

To be able to identify the person each star represents, we have a chart with a list of the names. The numbers correspond with those of the stars on the flag. In addition, the chart tells the branch of service, and the date that the alumnus left school or graduated.

For instance, star 325 represents the air ace Edward O'Hare, a Cleveland Alumnus. Star number 261 represents Walter Leeker of the Class of January '37, who was recently awarded the Purple Heart.

This flag is displayed in our auditorium for everyone to see. Cleveland is proud of these persons represented on it. One of the most impressive assemblies in our auditorium was the dedication of this flag.

*There's a star on our flag for the brave and the bold
And a wonderful story each one can unfold.
There are those who are fighting on sea and on land,
There are those who are nurses in a far away strand.*

Christmas Stockings

Cleveland did not forget her fighting men on Christmas. Red and green Christmas stockings were made by our Home Economics classes. Each group took several stockings and filled them to capacity with such articles as tooth brushes, tooth powder, cigarettes, combs, razor blades, and pocket-size detective stories. The groups put decorations on as they saw fit. In some of the groups the students painted a Christmas scene, Jolly Old Saint Nick, or Merry Christmas on each stocking. The stockings were tied with bright ribbons. They were then sent to Jefferson Barracks. A representative of Cleveland, Paul Heller, went to the Barracks with representatives from the other high schools of St. Louis to present the stockings to the men at the Barracks. Cleveland sent three hundred and seventy-four Christmas stockings. We sincerely hope that our boys who are scattered all over the world enjoyed as merry a Christmas as we here at home did.

Just after the holidays, letters began to pour in from the boys in the army hospitals. When our boys and girls received these letters they felt well repaid for their efforts to give our boys a happy holiday. The letters expressed joy at receiving articles that they actually needed, but most of all was the thought that someone was thinking about them. For many of the soldiers, this was the first Christmas away from home and loved ones. We hope that next Christmas, Victory will be ours and that our boys will be at home again.

Cleveland Takes a Part in Civilian Defense

There are some duties in Civilian Defense for high school students to perform. Chief among these are the Messenger Service duties. The Civilian Defense organization in St. Louis calls for ten thousand Messengers. The job of training this large number of Civilian Defense workers has been given to the Boy Scouts. Here in Cleveland, there are several boys who have received this training. Still others have received Messenger training in Cleveland's own organization, the Cleveland Commandos. All of these boys take an active part in Civilian Defense work and all of them are prepared for duty whenever they are needed.

Messenger training consists of from four to six meetings at which the boys are taught Civilian Defense organization; Blackouts, Air Raid Warning Systems, Fire and Gas Defense, Messengers' Duties, and the Geography of St. Louis. The training is very thorough and the Messengers are prepared for all emergencies.

Junior Air Raid Wardens are: Roger Ferrell, Kenneth Heithaus.

Clerks at Office of Civilian Defense are: Jean Neal, Virginia Mack, Mildred Aufderheide, Jacquelin Hanses.

Christmas Boxes

"What a delightful Christmas box," the little British orphan said gleefully. This scene was probably enacted many times in the British Isles and all over the world this Christmas, for never before has a Junior Red Cross project met with more prompt and eager response than in 1912. The Christmas boxes were sent to England, Iceland, Alaska, the Virgin Islands, and Latin America for the children in the war-torn countries of our Allies, who felt hardships more directly than we in the United States.

"Bring something for the Christmas boxes," was the battle cry of the Student Council representatives. The students were determined to assist the cause that, they thought, was worth the time and money that was required. Cleveland prepared three hundred of the several thousand boxes which were sent to children of our Allies. The boxes were 9"x4"x3" and were crammed full of useful articles such as tooth brushes, tooth powder, soap, wash cloths, combs, games, paints, ribbons, and the like. They were packed and ready for shipment by October 18.

International good will, which is so important among Allies in war time, will be strengthened by these Christmas boxes.

The students will feel well rewarded if their gifts have made some child a little happier, as the fine and well meant gifts undoubtedly will.

The Rifle Club has made a good record for twenty-one years in the quality of shooters which it has turned out. The Rifle Team has won four first and six second places in the High School League, also first place in the Seventh Corps Area match during the past two years.

This year more emphasis has been placed on training and instruction and less on competition. Three groups, the Rifle Club proper, the Drill Corps, and a group of beginners have been listening to talks, watching demonstrations, and practicing marksmanship. This is in preparation for entering some of the Armed Forces and the only ammunition which can be obtained at present must be used for this purpose.

Championship Rifle Team

The 1941-42 Rifle Team made an excellent record. In the Seventh Corps Area Postal Match, fired among forty-one high schools in the states of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, and Missouri, this team took first place, for the second consecutive year. The boys shown above and their scores are as follows:

The course of fire was ten shots prone and ten shots standing and the team total was 897. Cleveland High School obtained custody of a magnificent trophy for one year and permanent possession of a small trophy, while each boy on the team was given a medal and brassard.

In the local High School League, the season ended in a tie for first place among four teams. In the shoot-off, Country Day took first place and Cleveland, second place. Three members of last year's team have graduated and the success of this year's team will depend on the new shooters who are developing into excellent riflemen.

The girls of Cleveland High who wished to learn and enjoy the fine sport of target shooting have had this opportunity for many years. Our school has been represented by one or more teams in the annual "Midwest" Kemper Rifle Tournament each year since it was started in 1932. Some of these teams and individual shooters have made fine records for the school and themselves. Teamwork, discipline, sportsmanlike conduct, and ability to handle a target rifle safely are among the important advantages that may be gained in the Sharpshooters.

Los P. A. C. O. S.

Pan-Americanism is one of the United States' most important and timely problems. The Pan-American Club at Cleveland which is known as Los P. A. C. O. S. is designed to help the students understand our neighbors to the South. Better feeling and good will is established through this interest and appreciation of the Latin-American countries.

At the Pan-American Convention, held last spring it was decided by the delegates from the different high schools that a central council should be formed to make it possible for the various Pan-American Clubs in and around St. Louis to exchange ideas with each other.

The first meeting which was held at Cleveland was for the purpose of forming this organization. A constitution was drawn up and presented to the delegates. The Central Council of Pan-American Societies of Greater St. Louis became its name and from the beginning Cleveland High has been one of its most ardent supporters. Jack Perkins from Cleveland was elected Vice Chairman of the council and later became Chairman.

To bring Pan-Americanism before the student body at Cleveland an auditorium session was held on Pan-American Day, April 4. Mr. MacGregor, the Mexican Consular Representative in St. Louis, made an address. The latter part of the program consisted of entertainment by South American musicians and singers. This was very well received by the school. Spanish students of Cleveland contributed to the program by singing several songs in Spanish and by reciting the Lord's Prayer in Spanish.

William Meek of the student body placed third in Missouri in a nationwide essay contest on "What Inter-American Relations Mean to My Country." There is reason to believe that continued and significant study and activity in the field of inter-American relations may be expected from Cleveland students. This is in view of the fact that they are themselves interested and capable and because they are living in an area that has been officially designated by the United States government as an experimental center for Pan American studies in an age when these studies have prime importance.

Cleveland Speakers

Ever since December 7, 1941, Cleveland High School has participated in war activities. In the Public Speaking classes, many students have devoted valuable time to speak to different audiences on many of the present-day subjects. Some of the subjects were: Pan-American Activities, including "The Inter-American Solidarity," presented over station KMOX; the Scrap Metal Drive, presented before St. Louis Theaters; the War Chest Drive, presented to our own Cleveland audience; "The Meaning and Use of the Navy in the Present War," presented over station KMOX; the annual American Legion Oratorical Contest, in which students study the United States Constitution and present their version of it; and a presentation by Jack Perkins and Lawrence Fountain before the OCD organization of South St. Louis.

The students who participated in any of the mentioned subjects were Ruth Mae Haupter, Ries Beckemeier, Betty Jo Strohl, Jane Brewer, Jack Perkins, Jake Bosperska, Lawrence Fountain, George Peer, Kenneth Heithaus, Bill Brinkhorst, Arhne Nabe, Virginia Lohrer, Ralph Grosswiler, Richard Epp, Anita Heinrichsmeyer, Jean Lynch, Richard Darr, Walter Granneman, Jean Winge, Hortense Schumacher, and Wayne Hudgins.

Air Raid Drills

With the outbreak of the war, Americans became war conscious. The military leaders of our country watched Hitler's invasion of Poland in 1939. They paid particular attention to Hitler's Luftwaffe. They found themselves faced with the ultimatum that America, too, might be bombed. Thus the origin of air raid drills in America.

The coasts were the first to have drills, for they were considered in immediate danger. But then came the appalling fact that Germany might possibly reach the center of our country.

Cleveland, realizing this, immediately prepared. The Drill Corps organized the drills. Zones were described in the safer parts of the building. The Commandos were given positions to aid the transfer of the students from classes to zones. A fire fighting unit was established and portable units acquired. The Cleveland Commandos kept air craft spotters on the alert on the roof of our building. The firemen gave their cooperation with the use of their siren as a signal. Finally, blackout curtains were obtained in the auditorium, which were constructed with the purpose of catching flying glass.

Salvage-Silk Stocking Drive

The weekly silk stocking collection at Cleveland is a small but important war activity. The drive in St. Louis was started in churches and schools through the efforts of one of the city's most active war workers. Since the beginning of the drive over four million pairs of stockings and other knitted garments have been collected in St. Louis, of which Cleveland contributed a large share.

These stockings are bleached and sometimes rewoven and made into blankets for badly burned servicemen. The blankets made from silk are said to be more soothing and less apt to stick to burns than garments made from other materials. Every Friday these garments are collected by the Reps and taken to the Home Living Room and later they are turned over to headquarters.

First Aid

The First Aid classes for girls at Cleveland have increased greatly this past year. At first we had only one small class, but now we have two large ones consisting of ninety-one pupils in all. The practical work such as bandaging and splinting has been the most interesting. The girls are all working for a standard first-aid certificate. In case of an emergency we can look to these first-aiders for quick action and steady, calm advice.

First Aid for boys is taught by Mr. Jansen. There are two classes or groups in the course of First Aid, each group consisting of twenty-five students. The study of First Aid educates the student in application of dressings and bandages. It also teaches what to do for different types of wounds. At this time there are many boys out on the battlefield who value a knowledge of First Aid very highly. Cleveland's course is especially designed to teach Cleveland students such facts.

Physical Fitness

'Uncle Sam needs us strong' So Cleveland is going to make us strong. Not long after school opened, following the summer vacation, our three coaches started a body building course called the Strength Battalion. Each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday morning at 7:45, some seventy or more boys swarmed into the gymnasium to take an hour workout consisting of obstacle courses, running, boxing, wrestling, ju-jitsu, along with exercises of all kinds. This year for the first time in Cleveland's history, cross country running was taken up. The distance was a mile and a half or seven and a half times around the track.

Something else new and different has been added to Cleveland . . . 'boxing gloves' Twenty-four pairs have been purchased for the gymnasium. They are readily used by the boys both in the Strength Battalion and Gym classes. Not only the principles of boxing are taught in the Gym classes but special courses designed to thoroughly toughen the boys are taken. The courses consist of ladder climbing, pole climbing, chin ups, push ups on the parallel bars, and other exercises. This will do very much for building strong, capable, and efficient boys with plenty of vim, vigor, and vitality. Uncle Sam needs us strong. So Cleveland is going to make us strong and plenty strong!

During the second semester, Physical Fitness was offered to boys and girls in the terms five, six, seven, and eight. This program took the place of the regular Gym and was offered five periods a week.

In the Spring of 1942 the Army and Navy War Departments asked the United States Department of Education, Washington, D. C., to assist in providing detailed and scaled models of all fighting planes of all nations. The United States Department of Education called upon the schools of the country to fulfill this project. Students all over the country began immediately to answer this call and finished 500,000 model planes. The planes consisted chiefly of German, Italian, and Japanese planes.

The Army and Navy needed these planes for the purpose of teaching their identification. They are made to exact scale, one seventy-second of the actual size of the plane. When these models are held up in the air thirty-five feet away, their appearance is identical with a real plane in flight. The models do not have any landing gear or propeller for these appendages would not be seen in flight. The models are painted a flat black to create the illusion of a silhouette.

The Three of Us

*The three of us in Bomber 24,
We're Jack and Joe and Bill,
And we'll not be back until
We've finished up this fight
And freedom is in sight,
The three of us in Bomber 24.*

*The three of us in Bomber 24,
We've fought and bled together
In every kind of weather,
And now we're off again
O'er land and sea and fen,
The three of us in Bomber 24.*

*The three of us in Bomber 24,
We know each other's thought,
For together we have wrought
Through snow and fog and rain,
Our courage has not waned,
The three of us in Bomber 24.*

*The three of us in Bomber 24,
We're safely back on land
With a feeling that is grand,
And we offer up our prayer
To our Pilot — up there . . .
The three of us in Bomber 24.*

PHYLLIS LIGHT.

Number Eight

It's a grand and wonderful sensation to be flying above the clouds. It makes you feel as if you are completely detached from the rest of space, a grain of dust floating in a sea of nothingness. Gravity, the earth, and every other tangible or intangible thing seems to be nonexistent. But for the plane I am in I might think I am a bird or an angel or the like. Pipe that! Me an angel! That's a laugh. Buz Larton of 520 Cooper Street, Brooklyn, New York, an angel. Boy, oh boy, would the folks back home get a laugh at that; but then you have to think of something while up here or you will soon go mad. For a while the motor seems to hum beautifully, but after a while it gets monotonous and soon the roar seems to beat into your skull with the force of a hammer until you think you will go mad, stark raving mad! Here, I must snap out of this. But then these impressions are brought on by the high altitude and by the use of oxygen. Let's see, the altimeter reads 30,000 feet. I would be dead within a minute were it not for these oxygen bottles at my side.

Well, here I am, Buz Larton, Captain Buz Larton, leading a flight of twelve P-40's cruising along at 325 miles per hour. We are what is known as an aerial task force. Our instructions are to intercept and destroy a flight of Nakajima 19 bombers, one of Japan's best types. Flying my tail position is my kid brother, Bob. When they pinned my wings on me two years ago I little thought that that high school squirt of a brother who so warmly congratulated me would some day fly my tail spot. But that's now it is, Bob a raw shavetail and me a Captain. I've been in this mess a year now and there are seven Jap flags on the starboard side of my ship to show that I have been doing more than playing checkers. I'm gunning for my eighth now. Number eight! A record for my division if I can make it. The other men in this flight are veterans, that is, all of the men but Bob. This is Bob's first taste of action. He has been learning to fight and fly a plane for eleven months and now he will have a chance to put what he has learned into practice. We fliers have a saying which says in effect that all the books in the world won't make a fighter. The only way to learn is to be in actual battle. Sometimes this first lesson is very hard and some students flunk out. But when they flunk it is for keeps, no retests, only a dusty grave.

But what's that? A glint of steel to the east. The Japs have a habit of not covering their planes with dull paint. In fact they actually polish them to a high luster. In this way they gain a few extra miles per hour but they give themselves away every time. I motion with my arms. I don't wish to break radio silence until the last minute. The others see the shining bimotored bombers and we are off. We dive at them from out of the sun. An ideal setup. I turn and look at the sleek plane to my left rear, number 75. Bob's plane. I can see him clearly, tense and excited, trying his best to look calm as we dive for our glistening targets. We are like winged meteors as we plunge through the air. Things seem very real and tangible now. Too real and too tangible. As the eerie whining of the slipstream on my cockpit canopy fills my ears I wonder what Bob is thinking; did he remember to throttle down the engine? Did he adjust the emergency strap? No time for such thoughts now. With ever increasing speed the targets loom up before us. We are spotted! There are spots of light on the bombers. They are like glittering gems, but they glitter death. I will wait until within range and now—I press the gun button on the control stick and zoom past. With a sound resembling stones being thrown on a tin roof, Jap bullets pour across my wing, just missing me and my gas tanks. I whip around to admire the results of my shooting. His rudder is shot up but he is still in flying condition, but I will change that; one more run and I will have number eight. But what's this? Number 75 is going down! It's on fire. It's Bob's plane! Why doesn't he bail out? It's fallen off into a spiral dive and—now it is no more. Both Bob and his plane have met a watery grave. Just a bit of foaming ocean marks the place where he hit. That's one P-40 they will pay for! On. Oh! Oil pressure down to 95. Prop. revs. down to one thousand. They hit my motor in that first run. I won't be able to reach land and the chances are slim of weathering the ocean below in a rubber boat. The bombers are several thousand feet below. They are hugging the ocean to prevent attack from below. What shall I do? There is but one thing to do. Get number eight. The loss of one P-40 and one pilot against the loss of one Jap bomber along with its crew of five. My mind is made up. Push the stick forward, that's it! In a few seconds it will be all over. The target looms up larger, larger, larger, larger, closer, closer, - - - - -.

Number Eight for Buz Larton!

RALPH KOLDE.

Mr. American-Citizen

I suppose you folks are wondering who I am; well, some people might say that I am an average American citizen, but they would probably add that certainly I am not the perfect one. It is going to take a lot of us average people to win this war, and if we do our share and more, it is more than likely that we will win.

I am an old fella of forty, or at least, my daughter and son consider me old. Still, I have heard that life begins at forty. But you know these youngsters of today; if you are past twenty five they think you are ancient. I was born on a farm in the middlewest, at the turn of the nineteenth century. When I was twenty-one, three things of importance happened to me. I got married, gave up the country life for the glamorous city life, and I got a job with a large concern. I still have the same wife, the same job. However, the city does not seem glamorous anymore.

I, like my friends, and family and have always been sincere in my love for my country, but I seldom showed it until December 7, 1941. Then my feelings that were so deep-rooted inside of me came to the top and I was jolted out of my complacency into the rapid action of helping to defend my form of government. Although I could not join the Armed Forces, I did the next best thing. I enrolled in an Air Raid Warden class. Would you believe it? Before long I was made a captain and received my arm band, and a poster to put in my window so that in case of an emergency people would know that an Air Raid Warden lives in the neighborhood.

I enjoy driving for miles into the country, but I take a walk in the park for recreation now that gas rationing has started. It is really healthier to walk than ride anyway. Meat used to be one of my favorite dishes, but cheese and those other meatless dishes will probably taste just as delicious. I always thought that there was nothing better than coffee with my breakfast or apple pie. No doubt I will sleep more soundly if I do not drink as much coffee.

I like newspapers. I always look at the funnies first, then the editorial page. That space that is reserved for the public to write what they think always catches my eye. Some of these people sound as if they haven't anything else to do besides criticize our government and government officials. It seems to me that if they would spend some of their time in war work, this war would be over a lot sooner.

The other night I went to a banquet my company gave, to open the War Chest Drive. They served free eats, but that is not the only reason I went. It will be my duty to tell the other employees in my particular office what the War Chest is about, and to collect the money. The speakers at the banquet explained where the money would be used, so that we, the representatives, would be able to answer the questions that undoubtedly would be asked. Most of us are having ten per cent of our wages taken out every payday, but I know we will be glad to give what we can to the War Chest Drive.

Our family had fun getting into the Scrap Metal Drive. We looked all over the house from the basement to the attic and back again for anything that we thought would be useful, and we plan to go on looking. If we kept the scrap, that would be helping the Axis, but by giving it to the salvage posts we will be helping the United Nations to win the war.

My daughter is taking a First Aid course and in her Home Economics Sewing class she is making baby caps and gowns for the Red Cross. She has an idea that she would like to join the WAACS, but she won't be old enough for another five years, although she does think that since they are taking the eighteen and nineteen year old boys, they will no doubt lower the age limit for the WAACS. She is writing to an American soldier overseas. She is using V Mail stationery, and sending the letters Air Mail so that he will get them a few days sooner than if she sent them by ordinary mail service. Naturally he can't write much about what he is doing, or what the particular country is like, but he wouldn't write much or say much even if he could. He is typical of our American fighters, a boy of hero material.

My son, now there is a boy for you, is taking a physical course in the morning before school, and belongs to the Drill Corps that meets after school. He has it in his head to quit school and join the Navy, but his mother and I can't see it. We want him to finish his high school education at least, before he joins some branch of the service.

The little woman is doing war work and sometimes I have to cook my own supper, but I really don't mind, even if I do kick about it. Once or twice a week she goes to a class in nutrition. When she has the Red Cross meeting at our house, those women nearly set me crazy, all talking at the same time. It sure is surprising how much work they accomplish.

I know a great number of people who are contributing their time and efforts towards victory. These folks are a variety of nationalities, but when all is said and done we are really one people, American people, with one thought, one idea, and one purpose: to win this war as soon as possible and to make sure that this is the last one.

RUBY CLOYD.

Hemispheric Solidarity

At this very moment the fate of our Western Hemisphere hangs in the balance on the scales of war. I say the Western Hemisphere, not merely the United States, because one country will be unable to stand alone, should the rest of this Hemisphere fall. All American countries must maintain Hemispheric Solidarity if they desire to keep the sacred torch of Democracy burning brightly.

To some it may seem a bit too late to try to improve our Good Neighbor Relationships, yet this cannot, must not be true. At the present time nearly everything favors the furthering of friendship and mutual understanding with our sister republics of the New World. Above all, we are comrades in arms with the Pan-American nations, excepting Chile and Argentina. Then, we and they both have products that the other sorely needs. Besides, we are being drawn ever closer to them by the tightening hands of improving transportation. These are but a few of the many golden roads of opportunity that will lead the United States to a genuine lasting Good Neighbor Policy.

A number of the features of the Good Neighbor idea have been employed in the last few years. Outstanding among these has been the exchange of students between us and Latin America. This enables the future intellectual leaders on both sides to gain a first hand view of the other. A group of excellent young musicians under the leadership of Leopold Stokowski recently made a tour of South America, spreading good will at every performance. On Pan-American day last April, Francisco Muzone, the great Brazilian conductor, directed the Marine Band in Washington, D. C. There have been exchanges of motion pictures between the United States and Pan-American Nations. Mickey Mouse, incidentally, is a great favorite of South American moviegoers. The Government of the United States has donated funds through the Export Import Bank to some of the countries below the Rio Grande for development and improvement of public utilities and industries. There have been a series of Inter-American conferences, attended by foreign ministers, to a large extent, to further good will. And possibly most important of all, we have allowed the passage of Mexican troops over our soil.

All these innovations are fine and should be continued, but they are not sufficient. Only a few individuals out of our vast population participate in such activities. Every true American must take an interest in a Good Neighbor Policy if it is to be a success.

Surely, one way to become a Good Neighbor is to learn about the people next door. It is not uncommon to hate the parents of the brats who trample your flower garden, and then find these parents really nice people upon meeting them personally. We should be taught the history of the countries South of the Border. We ought to study their culture, arts, scientific achievements, and above all, their language.

How few of us, perhaps, know anything about Simon Bolivar, the great South American liberator, or of the wonderful civilizations of the ancient Incas or Aztecs. Few know of the many famous authors, poets, and artists of Latin America or of the highly acclaimed works of these masters. Think of how small is the number who can speak or understand the Spanish or Portuguese language. These obstacles must be overcome if we expect to be Good Neighbors. The means of overcoming them is through education and mutual understanding. Some of our schools have already taken some steps in this direction. Spanish is being stressed and the enrollments in Spanish classes in Latin American history have been organized. However, such work is still in its infancy. A tremendous task lies ahead.

In the past our political leaders have often assumed a sort of superiority complex in connection with the Pan-American nations. The United States has taken the role of "big brother" in the Western Hemisphere and has been referred to unappreciatively as the colossus of the north. This has caused much resentment among the countries of Central and South America. Now, however, a war for our very existence is giving us a chance to prove to these sister republics that we desire to be true friends. Americans, one and all, must stand together and face a common enemy on the worldwide battlefronts. The words from a poem by a former Cleveland faculty member now serving with the army may best express this feeling—

*"Tho one small note each may be,
Combined a swelling symphony,
Its sacred theme: Democracy."*

GEORGE PEER.

The Editor Reminisces

- September 7 Cleveland starts another year with an enrollment of 2247. Two new members of the faculty are welcomed, Miss Ulbricht and Mr. Jansen, a graduate of Cleveland.
- September 30 Cleveland turns out to pay homage to the new Football queen, Jane Repple, and to the retiring queen, Doris Wichman.
- October 4 Tennis season ends. Cleveland finishes fourth in league play; the doubles team came through the season undefeated.
- October 16 Mr. Fleming, our Assistant Principal, is transferred to McKinley. Mr. Alfred Friedli, from Clewett, takes his place and is kindly received by Clevelandites.
- October 23 Cleveland students present program over radio station KMOX in the feature, "This Living World."
- Nov. 6-13 Upper Mathematics classes lend a hand with fuel rationing. Confoozin' but amoozin'.
- November 10 Cleveland's "B" football team finishes its season, undefeated, untied, and un-scored-upon. A hand to Coach Jansen and the lads.
- Nov. 19-20 Cleveland rings with Harry Tierney tunes as "Irene" is presented. Dorothy Maehringer and Glenn Gatzert lead a superb cast to a great success.
- November 23 Mr. Hellmich, a former teacher, returns to Cleveland from McKinley. "Glad to be back," he says.
- December 1-4 Commandos have an "R" week, to recruit members and to inform the school of the excellent work of training for military service. Good luck to the students in uniform.
- December 3 Representatives from Roosevelt's Student Council visit Cleveland and are impressed by our student setup, particularly the way our dances are run. We, too, think Cleveland's dances outstrip those of any other high school in St. Louis.
- December 5 Cleveland loses its last football game to Southwest on a blustery, rain-soaked field, and ends season in third place. Orchids to Coach Fenenga, but we're sorry the weather turned thumbs-down on our hopes.
- December 18 Betty Glass and Shirley Lewis return to give an auditorium session. We're glad to see that two talented graduates continue to think of their Alma Mater. We enjoyed Betty's singing and Shirley's work at the piano, and wish for more of same.

- December 20 Cleveland exceeds its quota of Christmas boxes for children of foreign lands. Christmas stockings are sent to convalescents at Jefferson Barracks and Scott Field.
- December 23 Two of Cleveland's boys at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis inspire us with their oratory . . . and charm. Right, girls?
- December 24 Mr. Janetzki and the music organizations present the annual Christmas program, which sends us all home feeling the true spirit of Christmas. The program is broadcast in the afternoon over radio station KFUD.
- January 22 The Victory Corps begins to take shape, and will be in full swing this coming term. Our service flag is dedicated and is now on display in the aud. For a good start, seven hundred stars appear, including twelve gold ones.
- January 27 The swimming team finishes second in league competition. Coach Neumann's boys lost only an exceedingly close meet to Roosevelt during the entire season.
- January 28 Two hundred and twenty students graduate. Ken Myer wins the Washington University Scholarship. Most graduates will soon find duties connected with the war. Good Luck!
- February 1 New term begins. Honor Society is discontinued. Bob Hoff, Lawrence Fountain, and George Sanftleben head the Student Council, Court, and Officers, respectively. Cleveland goes over the top on its War Stamp quota for last term. A goal of $50,000 is set for June. Congratulations, Cleveland, champion War Stamp seller of all St. Louis high schools.
- February 3 One hundred and thirty dollars is collected for the Mile of Dimes. We did our part.
- February 12 Basketball league season ends with Cleveland sharing top honors with Beaumont.
- February 15 Cleveland's sale of Stamps today was $8,820.90, the best yet. Let's do it again.
- February 27 Rifle team places second in Washington University Team Tournament.
- March 6 Basketball team loses to Beaumont in the finals of the district meet.

A Tradition

*We hear quite a bit about Navy traditions
Like "Don't Give Up the Ship."
Since the world's first sailors went on missions
A motto they've had for every trip.*

*"We've Met the Enemy and They Are Ours"
Rang from our battlements and towers.
"Remember the Maine" was a sweet refrain
That helped George Dewey reach his fame.*

*Now "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition"
Will soon be added to our traditions
And whether it's the Army, the Navy or Marines
There will always be Old Glory, beautiful, serene.*

The Sentry

*I wonder what the sentry thinks
As he makes his rounds at night.
Do his thoughts wander back to the folks at home
As he waits for the dawn of light?*

*Or does he think of the men in the barracks near
As he stands his lonely guard?
And he wonders what the day will bring
As he utters a prayer to his Lord.*

GLENN BOVERIE.

War Paint

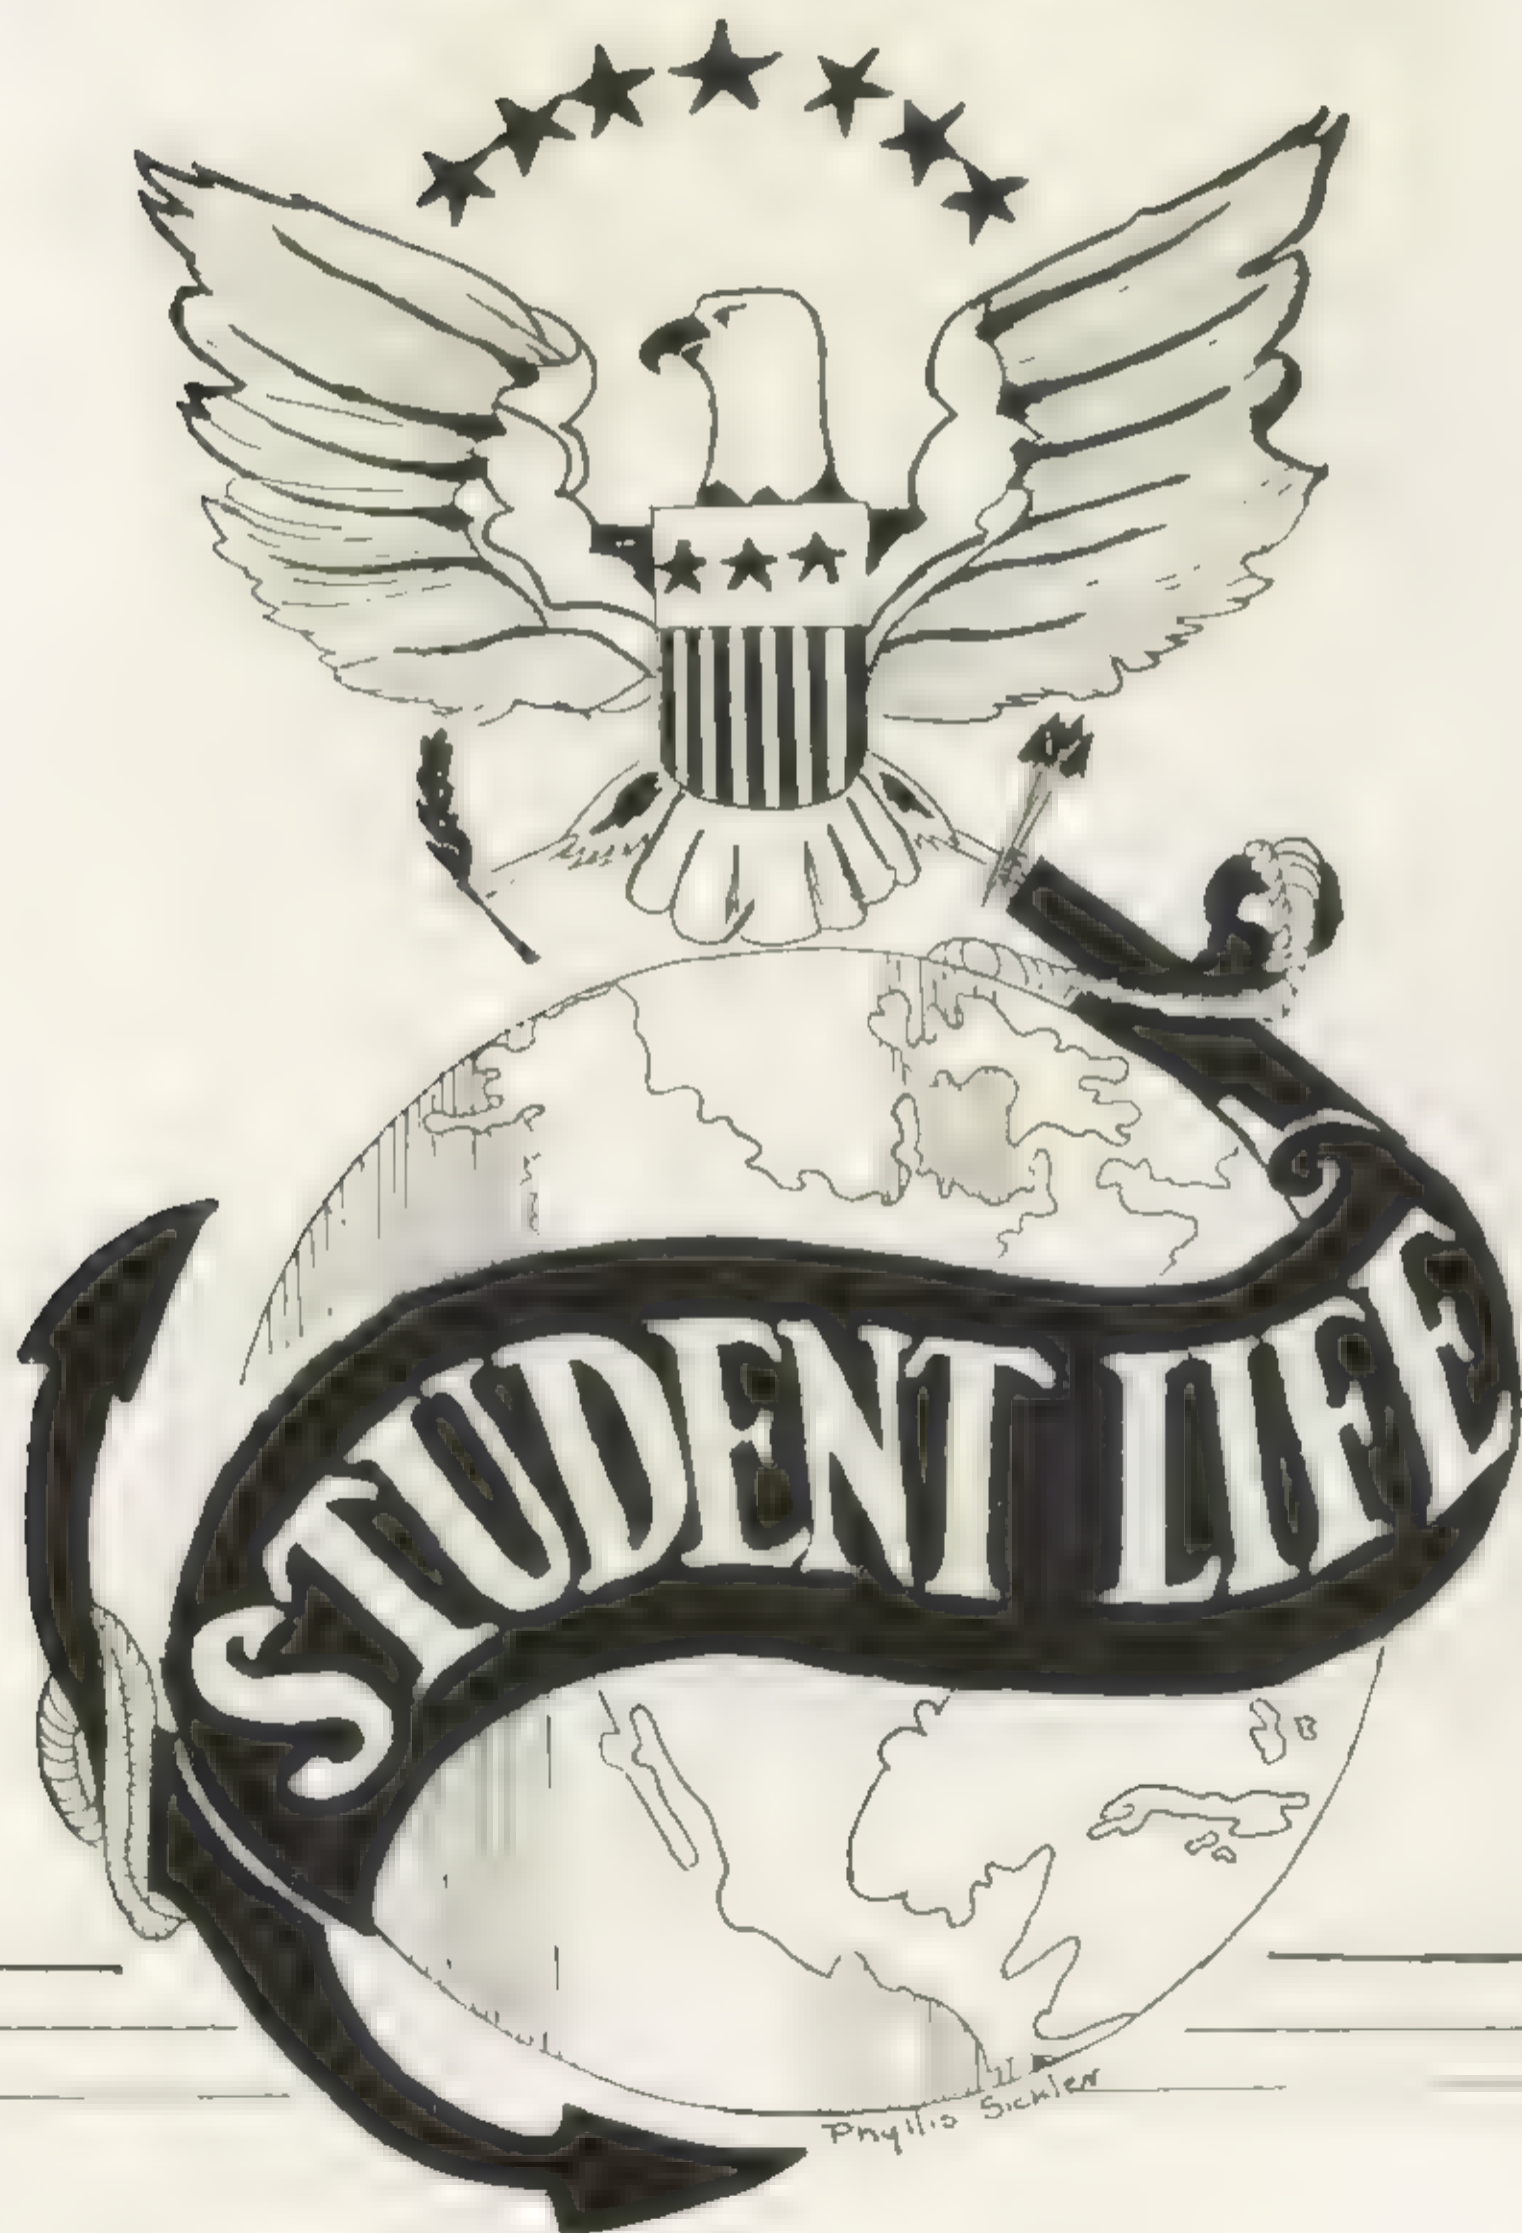

*"Dear Me!" said Raggety Ann to Andy
"I wonder just why it is
That every time I eat candy
My lips turn red, Gee Whiz!"*

*"Oh don't you know," said Andy to Ann
"That the war is to blame for all of this?
For the dyes that were brown are now tan
And the red on your lips—Oh miss!"*

The Orange and Blue

Although outside contributions form a part of the paper, students from the Advanced Composition class are largely responsible for the publishing of it.

They, with the sponsors, Miss Julia D. Pryor, Literary Sponsor, and Mr. J. D. Bragg, Business Manager, and the elected staff work together to produce the paper.

The staff for 1942-43 consists of Travis Wright, Editor, June Miller, Associate Editor, and Donald Meyer, Business Manager. When Don graduated in January, Lloyd Lohaus was appointed to take over the position.

Pictures provided by John Close and Ralph Padfield, Staff Photographers, and the Publicity Club, have been of great help in securing the 1800 subscriptions of the paper. Subscriptions supply the only source of revenue for the publication since advertisements are not solicited.

The Orange and Blue appreciates strong school support.

War days are busy days for the Student Council. We have found that we had to be on our toes every day in order to get the many things done that we bargained to do. On Mondays, the Student Council Reps made their drive for the sale of Stamps and Bonds. It was because of the excellent cooperation of the members of each group that Cleveland has been out in front, leading all the high schools. The Council sponsored many drives and collections such as the silk stocking drive, the Victory Book Campaign, etc.

The real joy that comes from giving was ours when we saw the stacks of Christmas boxes which were filled by Clevelandites for the children of our Allies, and when we saw the hundred of well filled Christmas stockings which our boys and girls sent to the Junior Red Cross for the men at the army hospitals.

Our Reps have taken care of the distribution and collection of Red Cross garments. We are proud of Cleveland's participation in the War Work.

The Student Council is trying out a new plan this term. Many members are meeting in Room 11 during study periods and are outlining their work, and at the same time are working with groups of Red Cross workers and Victory Corps members.

In this way the members of the Council get to know the students better and learn their likes and dislikes by working with them. The committee chairmen meet with their committees and make their plans. For instance, the members of the Publicity Committee make their charts and keep them up to date, the Welfare Committee distributes the Red Cross material and checks on articles. This work room is a busy place.

The Student Officer system plays an important part in the student participation in school government at Cleveland. The object of the Student Officers is to improve conditions at Cleveland and the Student Officers devote much time and effort to this cause. The Student Officers, the Council and the Court work together helping to increase student interest and knowledge for the betterment of Cleveland High School.

The activities of the Student Officers range from serving at the school entrances during each period of school, to assisting at the annual Alumni meeting. In addition, they help to make school dances a success, and give their services at the Operettas presented by the school. The Student Officers, whenever on duty, promote proper conduct among the students, by pointing out mistakes or actions that may lead to a conflict. To do this effectually, it has been necessary to receive the cooperation of the student body, and this cooperation has been given to a gratifying extent.

The Student Officers represent a group of students who are both loyal and trustworthy. They are proud of this reputation, and that they are able to keep many of their fellow students out of difficulty.

The Student Court completes the machinery of student participation in the government of Cleveland High School.

The Student Court attempts to help and to guide students by giving advice and friendly counsel, by discussing with them their problems of misconduct or irregularity and by suggesting or advising means of correcting these difficulties.

The great majority of cases referred to court are merely obvious breaches of the unwritten precepts of good Cleveland citizenship. For this reason the judges of the Student Court must possess a strong, well-defined sense of right and wrong as applied to school problems. It is a task that requires tact, sincerity, and good-will.

The Sociology Club, which meets after school on even Fridays, offers to alert-minded boys and girls in the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior years at Cleveland High School a wealth of opportunities to find out about the social agencies at work in the world of today. As a result of participation in the club discussions, the members learn to sense more definitely what society has done and is doing to enable each individual to develop worthwhile possibilities to the limit of his capacity and to appreciate more fully the deep responsibility which is theirs to live up to their club motto—"To know that we may better serve."

Webster-Hayne, Cleveland's public speaking club for boys, serves both as a social organization and as a medium through which boys can gain ease and skill in speaking before an audience. A typical program may include speeches by members on timely subjects after which there are lively general discussions; grab-bag talks, in which members give impromptu talks on various topics drawn from a box; and perhaps a debate.

Each Spring Webster-Hayne presents an original Mock-Trial, which is well-known for producing many laughs.

Alethinae, Cleveland's oldest club, consists of girls who are interested in all types of literature. Although up to the present semester, each program has been individual, and not connected with the previous meetings in any way, a new plan is being followed now. A study is going to be made of the arts and literature of many foreign countries.

Alethinae's initiations are well-known through the school, especially by the Webster-Hayne members who usually get a chance to participate in them. Then, too, the annual Mother's Tea and Senior Party are outstanding events of the club.

Since the word "Salutatio" meant to the Romans an early morning meeting, our meetings have always been held before school.

With all thoughts centered on the war this year, our interest has turned to the broadening of our knowledge of the modern world, its peoples, and our country's present position in this greatest of all conflicts. For this purpose we have presented a series of "Maps for Victory" programs designed to make us more familiar with the lands of the Far East and the Pacific. Toward this end we have also made a study of the science of map-making and have had an excellent display of maps, showing many lands and points of interest.

Archery attracts the high school girl who loves the outdoors, and holds the interest of the mentally awake. Although archery looks easy, it requires patience and practice to make a good score. Each member is truly a "lover of the bow," as the name Toxopholite implies.

The novice has an apprenticeship, indoors on Tuesday and Wednesday, while the regular members may be seen on the range with their sponsor, Miss Kilpatrick, every Thursday. When the weather doesn't permit target practice, the time is used for craft work.

Any girl interested in archery is most welcome at the regular meetings each Thursday in Room 111.

The main purpose of the Orthography Club is to give its members a greater knowledge of the spelling, pronunciation and derivation of words. During the Fall term, the members take time off from their study of words, and test their knowledge by challenging English classes to contests. The most important event of the year is the St. Louis Inter-High School Spelling Tournament, which is held early in the Spring. The members study earnestly for this contest, and provide real competition for their opponents in the tournament. This club is open to all Cleveland students. It is an invaluable aid to its members in school, business, and social life.

The name of this club suggests its idea or purpose, at least to a certain degree. "Phyla" means the divisions of animate creation. The members of this club show most interest, however, in the last class of the highest phylum, the human being.

The interests of the club are far-reaching, since every type and phase of life are included in the meeting discussions. Topics may be anything suggested, from "Etiquette" to "What to Feed the Family Pet." As an important feature this term, the club plans to take up First Aid.

Throughout the year on special occasions, parties are given as a diversion from the regular routine.

Anna Howard Shaw is a girls' dramatic club, which was originally organized as a debating club. At each meeting a short play or skit is presented by the members, who benefit greatly from the experience and from comments made by others present.

The two gala events of each term are the Mothers' Tea and the party with Webster-Hayne. The colors of Anna Shaw are silver and blue, and the motto is: "Swif the action to the word, and the word to the action."

Mental chess, commonly called blindfold, is played without sight of the chess board and pieces. The moves are called by the player and made by the opponent or through an intermediary.

It is related that the great chess master, Pillsbury, played simultaneously 18 games of chess and 18 games of checkers, while he also played whist and answered questions, and won all his games. At the conclusion of this exhibition he asked that someone select a three-inch column from a newspaper, which he read through once and then recited it backwards.

The present mental chess champion is the master, Koltonosky, who recently gave two exhibitions in St. Louis. In one he played three players mentally, after his eighteenth move on each board, as though they were in sight and error. In a second exhibition, names of cities were assigned to sixty-four squares of the board. He studied the board for a few moments and then proceeded to make the knight's tour of the cities mentally, without omission of a square. A knight move, in itself, is rather difficult, if made to the nearest oblique square of opposite color. When one considers that it had to hop, skip, and jump over the sixty-four squares without omitting or repeating, one will grant that it would be no small feat to accomplish this if permitted the use of the board and pieces, and perhaps a piece of chalk with which to record the path.

To be an expert at this sort of thing one must have a photographic mind. Perhaps you have one, who knows.

Last Spring it participated in the St. Louis Public School Music Festival and was credited with an outstanding performance.

The Operetta

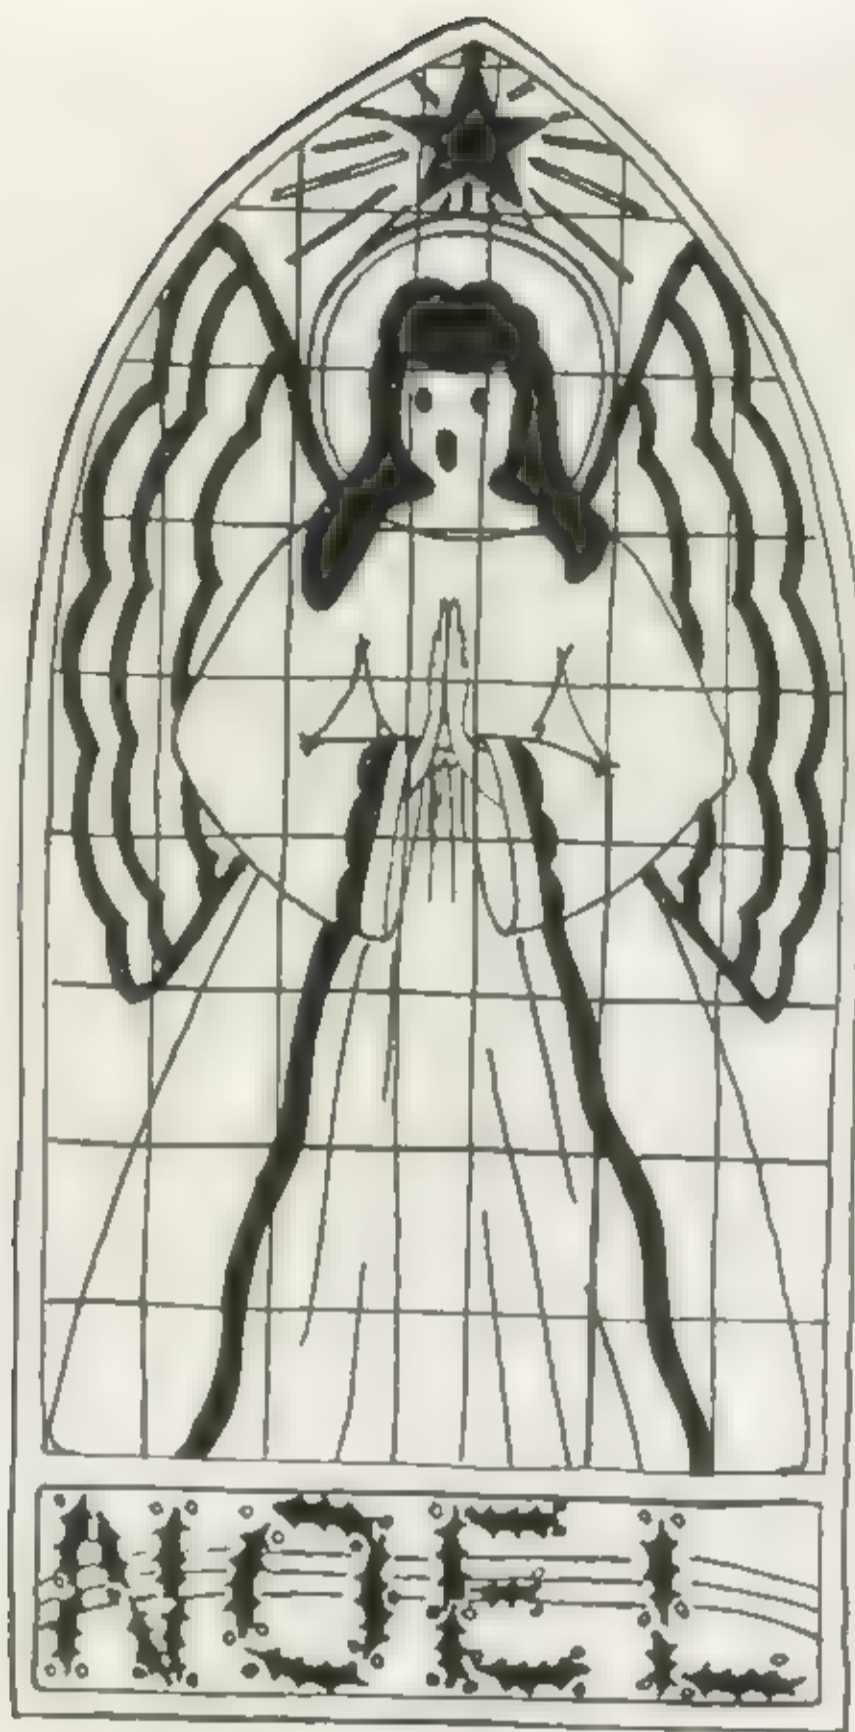

On the evenings of October 19th and 20th, the operetta "Irene" was presented in the Cleveland auditorium. "Irene" is the story of a girl hired by a wealthy young businessman, Donald Marshall, in order to help a dress designer, Madame Lucy, in business. Irene, a beautiful shop girl, displays the products of the Madame's art in society and in doing so charms several of Donald's friends. Donald, however, falls in love with her and with little effort makes her his bride. The drama is punctuated by the antics of Madame Lucy, who is a man, despite the name, and two other shop-girls hired for the same reason as Irene.

Miss Meenach was the dramatic director; the beautiful music of the operetta was well directed by Miss C. L. Mann and Mr. Barrett; Miss Gunther, assisted by Beatrice Meadows and Julia Mueller, were in charge of the dances; Miss Knepper and her Stagecraft classes provided the stage settings. The production was well done by Cleveland students and teachers.

Christmas Program

This year our Christmas program was a musical one. The music was that of the holiday season woven into the Christmas story and supplemented by the story in narrative. The songs were sung by the various singing groups of the school, under the direction of Miss C. L. Mann. A small ensemble from the school orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Barrett, provided a musical background for the narrative which was given by Mr. R. W. Janetzke.

"Adeste Fideles" was the first on the program. This was sung by the entire chorus and followed by "Little Town of Bethlehem." A small ensemble from the Senior Girls' Glee Club sang "Jesu Bambino," "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," and "What Child Is This?" The boys then sang "We Three Kings of Orient Are." The Glee Clubs and A Cappella Chorus then gave several numbers.

Football

Once again, as in past years, the 1942 football season brought joys and disappointments to the faithful followers of the Orange and Blue. Things looked bright for the Cleveland Dutchmen before the season began. There were ten lettermen returning from last year's squad and in addition there were several promising newcomers to the team. There was nothing in view that would tend to indicate an unsuccessful season.

Championship hopes loomed brightly for the Dutchmen when in their first league game of the season they slipped by a strong Soldan team 11-13.

Cleveland's hopes were dimmed somewhat by a defeat at the hands of the ever powerful Beaumont eleven in the next contest 13-12.

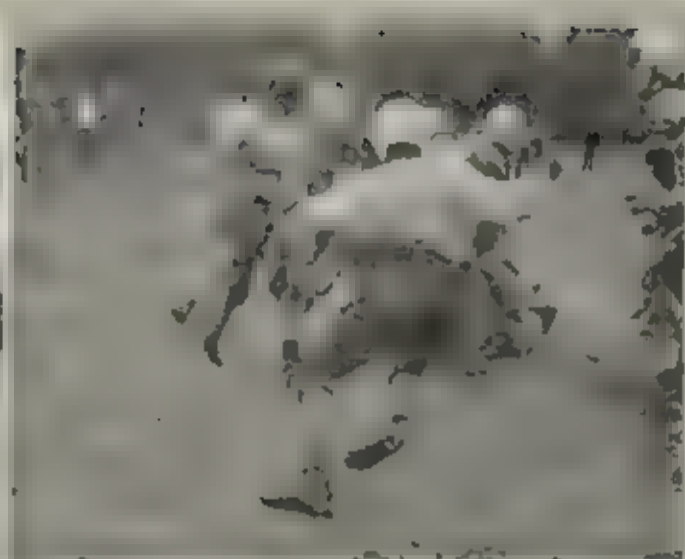

When the Orange and Blue played McKinley to 0-0 in the next game, hopes were revived somewhat, for a tie with last year's champions was, indeed, an encouraging sign.

The Dutch raised their moral spirit as well as their league standing by defeating their old South Side rivals, Roosevelt's Rough Riders, in a hard fought game.

A victory over the Redwings of Central proved to be of great advantage to the South Siders for it boosted them into a three-way tie for first place. It looked as if the boys might "bring home the bacon" after all.

All the hopes of the loyal followers of the Orange and Blue were dashed to pieces when the Longhorns of Southwest sent the Dutch down in defeat in the final game of the season. This setback left the Dutchmen in third place in the league's season standing. It also left Southwest in a tie for first place with Beaumont, who eventually won the championship in the post-season playoff.

Thus came to a close another season for Cleveland. However, we are all looking forward to a more successful season next year. This year, Coach Fenenga has seen fit to honor only Seniors with the coveted "C's". We all hope that this is just some of Coach Fenenga's strategy, to make Cleveland the "dark horse" of the league in '43.

The Coronation

All hearts thumped louder as the Cleveland High School Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Barrett, began the "Processional March." The President of the Student Council, Paul Heller, looking very handsome in his tux, took over the job of introducing the maids and the queen. As the bugle sounded, Paul announced the first maid, Miss Joyce Busch. Joyce looked lovely in a blue satin and tulle formal. The bodice of satin was torso effect with drop shoulders. She was proudly escorted by Reis Beckemeier.

The second maid to make her way to the throne was Miss Rosemary Kley, escorted by Bob Coquelin. Her gown had a blue velvet bodice with a full blue tulle skirt.

Handwritten note:
 Had such a swell time at the coronation.
 My friend, Rosemary Kley, was the first maid.

Miss Georgia Goufopoulos was the third maid to appear. Her gown of pale green tulle was torso with straps of glittering sequins. She was accompanied by Joe Schmidt.

Miss Mary Remeke appeared looking very sweet in a pink satin and tulle formal. The very full skirt was edged by three ruffles while the drop shoulders were trimmed with ruffles also. Her escort was Bill Auld.

Miss Shirley Wilson made her way gracefully beside her escort, Al Lorch. Shirley looked very chic and quaint in a black and white checkered taffeta dress. The bodice fit very snugly and the sleeves were long. A Peter Pan collar set off the neck.

The sixth maid to bow before the retiring queen, Miss Doris Wichman, was Miss Stanley Weiss. Her dress was blue taffeta. The neckline was round and set off by a yoke of tulle. It was torso effect with a very full skirt. She was escorted by Bob Coffey.

Following Miss Weiss came Miss Lucie Smith, escorted by Ralph Padfield. Lucie wore a blue taffeta and net gown with a fitted bodice and dropped shoulders. The very full net skirt was appliqued with flowers.

The next maid announced was Miss June Kleinpeter. June looked lovely in her gown of black lace with a low cut neckline and a full skirt of white tulle. She wore an orchid in her hair. She was escorted by Bob Campbell.

Miss Jean Moll then made her graceful way to the throne. Jean looked stunning in an aqua satin and tulle gown. The torso bodice was satin and was set off by drop shoulders of tulle ruffles. The very graceful skirt of tulle had three ruffles at the bottom. She was accompanied by Bill Hooten.

The last maid to make her appearance was Miss Betty Silman, escorted by Don Trefnev. Betty wore a pale green tulle gown with a simple bodice with ruffling in an apron effect on the skirt. She wore an orchid in her hair.

The long awaited Football Queen of 1942 was then announced by Paul Heller, Miss Jane Repple. Jane made her way gracefully to the throne, escorted by Bill Murphy. She wore a pea green slipper satin dress with a sweetheart neck and puffed sleeves. She knelt before the retiring queen, Miss Doris Wichman, and received her crown from the captain of the football team, Virgil Steinerd. She then took her place upon the throne and reigned happily.

Our lovely retiring queen, Miss Doris Wichman, wore a pale blue net gown with a torso bodice. The skirt was decorated by showers of sequins. Jack Harrison was her escort. Doris carried yellow mums, while Jane carried red and white roses. All of the maids carried yellow pom-poms.

After a program in which some of Cleveland's talented students took part, and a pep session directed by Mr. Schueneman, the program closed with everyone singing the Cleveland Loyalty Song.

This year, Cleveland annexed a new member to the faculty, his name —Mr. Earl Jansen, commonly called "Coach." Coach Jansen is a graduate of Cleveland and holds the remarkable record of collecting thirteen letters while attending Cleveland. Three of these he accomplished in basketball.

To Coach Jansen's aid came Cleveland's "Father of Sports," Mr. Feneaga, who took the "B" team off his hands. Coach Jansen then found he could devote all his time to the varsity squad, teaching and drilling them on the finer points of the game, along with the ever-essential teamwork.

The season was very successful, with Cleveland sharing top honors with Beaumont in the Public High School League. Additional honors came with the annexation of the South Side Subregional Championship.

1942 Track Team
Track

The 1942 track team proved to be a bigger and better team than those Cleveland offered to the field for some years. A good deal of credit must go to the coaching of Mr. Ballin.

When the boys assembled for the first try-outs, more than one hundred and fifty entries showed up. This number dwindled to about forty after the eliminations. It must be said that each and every one gave his utmost in his particular end of the sport for Cleveland.

The elected captains who engineered the various teams through the year were as follows: Joe Schmidt, All team captain; Harvey Williams, Seniors; Clarence Wacker, Juniors; and Bill Miller, Midgets.

Our turnout for Field Day consisted of nineteen participants. Cleveland placed fifth in total points scored. There was a lot of excitement and many close finishes; Cleveland walked away with one of the honors of the day when Bill Miller broke the Midget running broad jump record of eighteen years' standing.

The hard hitting team in the finals was:

Seniors: E. Dowler—120 High Hurdles and 200 Low Hurdles; B. Coffey—Pole Vault; C. Stanglein—Shotput; M. Buholzer—Broad Jump.

Juniors: R. Brown—120 yard Low Hurdles; G. Boverie—120 yard Low Hurdles; C. Wacker—50 and 100 yard Dash; C. Hake—Pole Vault; F. Bence—Broad Jump; E. Von Doersten—Shotput.

Midgets: B. Miller—75 and 50 yard Dash, High Jump, Shotput, Broad Jump; L. Kaeser—High Jump; G. Niehaus—Broad Jump.

Baseball

Baseball at Cleveland in the Spring of 1942 had one of its most hectic as well as successful seasons since the game was introduced at the school. Coach Fenenga stated, "It was the best team that ever represented Cleveland on the diamond."

The "South Side Dutch" showed their perseverance and defeated every opponent in the league twice, except Beaumont.

This fine record was accomplished not only by the team as a whole, but also by several outstanding players. Robert Spinks, who led the league in batting with a .563 average, Elbert Fields, whose fine knuckle ball baffled many opponent batters, and Charles Murphy, the "fleetfoot" of the squad, who led the league in bases stolen, with a total of twenty.

At the climax of the season, Beaumont and Cleveland shared top honors, and a play-off series took place to decide the championship. Cleveland clinched the first contest, but was on the short end of the next two, to give Beaumont the undisputed championship.

Despite the unhappy ending, followers of the team realized that Cleveland was represented on the diamond by a squad with a fighting spirit and ability to play ball.

In 1942, the team started out with a bang and ended up with a bigger bang. To start things rolling, a team of fast free-stylers, Ervin Straub, Fred Boyd, Charles Williams, and Scott Harrington, swam off with the annual Washington University 200 yard free-style relay race.

The team ran along smoothly for the remainder of the season, losing only three dual meets.

The Public High School City Meet came around and our tankers placed second, losing to Roosevelt by five points.

Ervin Straub, Fred Boyd, and the medley relay team, Good, Straub, and Harrington, turned in firsts for our team.

And then to top everything off the team came through in the State Meet to nose out Roosevelt by three points. Ervin Straub was the only Clevelandite who turned in a victory.

Letters were awarded to the following fellows: (Capt.) Ervin Straub, Fred Boyd, Richard Good, Scott Harrington, Jim Blaine, Bill Heiberger, Ray Williams, and Harry Keough.

In the St. Louis Public High School City Championship Meet our team placed third.

Then the Missouri State Championship Meet rolled around. In the semi-finals, Cleveland qualified seven swimmers, Soldan nine, and Roosevelt seven. The meet was very close all the way, and when the scores were added up, they showed Cleveland to be one point behind Roosevelt.

Ray Williams and Elmer Brendert were defeated only twice during the entire season. Ray lost only to Gilbert Tullh of Principia, who broke the state 100 yard breast stroke record by .7 of a second. Elmer was defeated only by Pierre Chouteau, who was city and state champion.

This year, letters were awarded to (Capt.) Ray Williams, Bill Hebbenger, Jim Blaine, Harry Keough, John Bollato, Elmer Brendert, and (Mgr.) Don Koppen.

The June Class will hold Bell and Epp with one year's service to their fame. Cleveland tips its hat to these fellows who have done their share to "Keep 'Em Winning."

Owing to the difficulty in arranging schedules with the park officials, it has been decided to have schools play off their entries whenever it is convenient for them, either alone or with another school with whom they may be able to arrange a schedule.

The club organized a league of eight teams which bowled on Monday. Each of the bowlers was assessed a fee each week that the league bowled. During the year members of the club challenged members of the Girls' Bowling Club and various teams from other schools.

Bowling gives healthful exercise. Some object to the noise although you can hear a pin drop.

Dancers in Operetta

The dancing club of Cleveland High School was organized more than fifteen years ago and has been a source of satisfaction and pleasure to its members since its organization.

An attempt is being made to form dancing classes during school as a part of the regular curriculum but until that time comes the extra-curricular activities including try-outs and rehearsals for operetta performances will have to suffice.

This club has functioned not only as a means of recreation and pleasure but also for actual instruction and education, since many girls have learned the fundamentals and skills of dancing and others have improved their technique during practice periods.

Most important of all is the fact that most of the dances in the operettas and entertainments which have been given here at Cleveland have been produced by members of the dancing club. Some of the members have even created the dances with the help of the sponsor and have also assisted in training the other girls.

The Girls' Athletic Association of Cleveland was started by Misses Gunther and Harrison in the fall of 1927. With the able assistance of outstanding girls who were students at that time and with the help and approval of Miss Fisse, who was then Dean of Girls, and Mr. Slater, the Principal, G. A. A. took form and has grown steadily ever since.

One of the reasons for the steady growth and success is that it is a truly democratic organization. Every girl who attends Cleveland has an equal chance for participating in the activities offered and for winning the coveted awards that are given for excellence, dependability, and perseverance.

The purpose is to organize a program of physical activities, to direct their operation, and to establish conditions conducive to the active and enthusiastic participation of large numbers of girls.

The fact that three afternoons a week from November to April are devoted to bowling by Cleveland girls is proof of the popularity of this sport.

Every Tuesday more than one hundred and fifty girls can be seen sprinting down Alaska Avenue to St. Luke's Bowling Alleys. The reason for this is that the ones who arrive first will be on the first "shift." The rest of the girls cheerfully wait, however, until they, too, can get their "turn." Sometimes they do their homework, sometimes they watch the others bowl, and when their turn does come they thrill at each "strike"; a not uncommon happening.

On Thursday a different group of a hundred and forty girls go to St. Luke's.

On Fridays still another group goes to St. Anthony's Bowling Alleys.

It is really remarkable how many girls become excellent bowlers, not to mention the fun and exercise they have and the many and lasting friendships that are formed through these associations.

Hockey is fast becoming one of the favorite sports at Cleveland. This season it is played only before school at 8:00 o'clock. The girls enjoy this better because they have the whole field on which to play, with no interference. They feel refreshed after playing in the cool, crisp morning. The girls are rapidly becoming better players. Good or bad, they have a lot of fun.

Many girls at Cleveland take part in the winter sport of basketball. This game develops accuracy, self-control, team work, and other necessary qualities to make a good sportsman and citizen. The girls get excitement, exercise, thrills, and spills all in the same game. This fast moving sport is held every Monday after school.

Volleyball is an excellent game for development of skill, speed, and cooperation with other members of the team, and good wholesome exercise.

There are two large groups of girls who play after school each Tuesday and Wednesday from November to April.

The Tuesday group is sponsored by Miss Ulbricht and the Wednesday group by Miss Gunther.

Horseshoes

Among the many activities for girls, horseshoes is very popular. Many girls take part in this sport, eager for skill in playing and competition with other girls. At first ringers are few and far between but after practice they become more numerous.

At first the pegs are close together, but the distance is increased until they are the regulation distance apart. The pits are set up on the hill beside the school. Twelve pits are used at one time, with four players at each pit.

This sport requires skill in directing the shoe to the peg and is really quite enjoyable. It is also a sport that "carries over" after graduation as it can be enjoyed by young and old alike.

Girls' Tennis

Miss Hehrlein, Miss Ulbricht, Miss Gunther..... Sponsors

One of the most popular sports among the girls at Cleveland is tennis. Because of the large number of girls participating, all the courts are used every day of the week.

One day is set aside for tennis instruction, and beginners receive pointers on how to hold the racket, how to serve, how to keep score and many other important things that help to make good tennis players. After this the girls play and with the help of more advanced players who assist the sponsors in coaching, they have a good time and find they can play better than they had realized.

The advanced players use the courts on the other days and improve their game as well as having a grand "work out" and loads of fun.

Roller skating has become one of the most popular G. A. A. activities for the winter season. More than two hundred girls have become members and all seem to enjoy themselves every Friday afternoon at three o'clock.

All girls are welcomed, whether amateurs or experts.
